Official hand-over of the 2010 Legacy football turfs In Jane Furse was held on the 16th November 2012. Present at the function was SAFA president Kirsten Nemathandani, CEO of National Lotteries Board, and other dignitaries.

A soccer tournament was organised as part of the activities of the day. The players from both teams, said they were very happy for the pitch as it gives them an opportunity to practice their skill on a pleasant pitch.

In his address, SAFA president said he was grateful at the efforts of Makhuduthamaka in adding value to the pitch, by putting in floodlights and other additions. He encouraged the players to make use of the pitch and not turn it into a white elephant.

The mayor of Makhuduthamaka promised players and guests present that more developments on the pitch will be done, funds permitting.

Presently the pitch doesn't have a grand stand.
